Data privacy

The Data Protection Act 1998 puts in place certain safeguards regarding the use of personal data by organisations, including the Department for Education (DfE), local authorities and schools. The Act gives rights to those (known as data subjects) about whom data is held, such as pupils, their parents and teachers. This includes:

- the right to know the types of data being held
- why it is being held, and
- to whom it may be communicated

5. <https://www.gov.uk/disability-living-allowance-children/overview>

A 'privacy notice' is a good way to be able to meet data subject's rights and therefore DfE recommend they are used to explain to parents, pupils and staff how their data is being used. The department has drafted template privacy notices <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/data-protection-and-privacy-privacy-notices> that providers/schools and local authorities may like to use, however, they should be reviewed, amending as necessary to reflect business need and ideally include this link <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/data-protection-how-we-collect-and-share-research-data> to the gov.uk webpage on how the department collects and shares data.

Please note that information about whether a child is in receipt of Disability Living Allowance is sensitive personal data which should be handled appropriately. Providers are asked to pay particular note to advice from the ICO on holding personal data including sensitive personal data available at:
